

ABSTRACT

The present invention relates to a method for detecting at least one parameter representative of molecular probes fixed to zones of a sensor.